From the Leiden Gazette, dated Auguſt 9.

Warſaw, July 21.

THE Conſilium Poſt-Comitiale, which ordinarily meets after the General Diet is broke up, to give orders for putting their Reſolutions in Execution, met at Lublin on the 16th and finiſh'd all they had to do in 2 days; in particular it was agreed unanimouſly by all the Senators preſent, that the Cardinal Primate and the Commiſſioners of the Republick ſhould anſwer the King of Sweden's laſt Letter, and acquaint him, that notwithſtanding the General Diet had taken ſuch Meaſures as the Law of Nature ſuggeſts for their juſt Defence, yet they had not taken away from their Commiſſioners the Power to treat of Peace; but had on the contrary given new Inſtructions, in hopes his Swediſh Majeſty would reſolve to come to reaſonable Terms with the Republick, who would give him all neceſſary Aſſurance of the firmneſs and laſtingneſs of the Peace that ſhould be made. The number of Troops that are to be employ'd againſt the Swedes and Coſſacks in caſe the War continue, was fix'd by this Council at 94000 Men Horſe and Foot. On the 18th the King of Poland arriv'd from Lublin at Olkfort, a Country Seat belonging to the Great Marſhal of the Crown, within 4 Leagues of this City, where he will continue for ſome time. The Regiment of Foot of Denhoff, which ſerv'd as his Majeſty's Guard during the ſitting of the Diet, is order'd to march to Tikokzin, to relieve the Saxons that are there, the Conſtitutions of the Republick requiring that that Town ſhould be garriſon'd by Poliſh Troops only.

Elbing, July 24. The Advices from about Thorn, inform us, that the Garriſon of that City made a Sally lately, but were repuls'd with loſs; which ill Succeſs, according to the Report of Deſerters, has augmented the Diſcontents of the Burghers, who are in extream Want of Needful Proviſions; ſo that 'tis apprehended the Place muſt ſhortly fall into the Hands of the Swedes. We learn that the Magiſtrates of Dantzick, to ſave the Villages within the Dependance of that City from Military Execution, are inclin'd to treat of Contributions with the Swedes. But we being reſolutely determin'd not to hearken to their Demands, are working day and night to repair our Fortifications.

Dantzick, July 28. Since the King of Sweden has been made acquainted with the Reſolutions taken by the General Diet lately held at Lublin, his Majeſty ſtreightens the Town of Thorn more than before, to oblige it to Surrender. The Commiſſioners of the Republick of Poland, have already nam'd a Place, viz. Starogrod within half a League of Culm, for Negociating a Peace with the King of Sweden: And there runs a Report, that his Swediſh Majeſty will render himſelf thither in Perſon. On the 26th a Brigantine brought ſome Diſpatches hither from Stockholm, another is arriv'd ſince, and Count Steinbock has ſent back the firſt. There are likewiſe come into our Roads 2 Swediſh Men of War, who lye at Anchor under Heela, one of them carries 70 the other 80 Guns: 'Tis ſaid they have brought ſome Troops, and that leave to land them has been demanded of our Magiſtrates; which is not unlikely, becauſe laſt night there were ſeveral Meſſages to and from Count Steinbock's and our chief Burgomaſter's Houſe. Some Advices from Great Poland tell us, that ſeveral Hundred Gentlemen have proteſted againſt the Reſolutions taken by the Diet, have entred into a Confederacy among themſelves, and taken an Oath to maintain their Religion, Liberty and Privileges, and to be True to the King: That they have choſen the Staroſt Pyrdresky for their Grand Marſhal, and have Summon'd all the Nobility and Senators of Great Poland to appear at Stroda.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated Auguſt 11.

Hamburg, Auguſt 7. They write from Poland, that the Cardinal Primate continues at Lublin; and that the Malecontents in Great Poland aſſembled together on the 24th of July, and agreed to hold another Aſſembly 3 Weeks after. From the Swediſh Army before Thorn 'tis advis'd, that the rainy Weather has oblig'd them to remove their Camp to a greater diſtance from the Town.

Hamburg, July 6. 'Tis advis'd from Livonia, that Collonel Schytte Governour of Dorpat, receiving Intelligence on the 3d of laſt Month, that that Morning 600 Muſcovite Horſe ſurpriz'd the Village of Vindau, and carry'd off 300 Inhabitants, 100 Horſes, and all the Cattle, he detach'd 170 Horſe commanded by Major Treudenfelt, to endeavour to reſcue the Prey out of their Hands. The Major being inform'd at Aya, that the Muſcovites were retreating with all the haſte they could by the way of Pleskow, took 6 Officers, 4 Volunteers, and 45 Horſe, and march'd on before the reſt of his Party, ordering them to follow him, and to haſten to his aſſiſtance if they ſhould hear by the Firing that he was engag'd. The following Night he paſs'd 2 Rivers and ſeveral Moraſſes, and on the 4th in the Morning diſcover'd the Muſcovites near the River Webſt. He paſs'd over a Bridge, and in the mean time the Muſcovites drew up in order of Battle; but notwithſtanding the mighty odds between the Number of the Enemy and his Party, he attack'd them, put them into diſorder, and retook the Priſoners and the Booty. The Muſcovites rallied, but the reſt of the Swedes coming up, charg'd them Sword in hand without firing a Shot, put them to the Rout, and made a dreadful Slaughter among them. The Muſcovites took to the River, and crowded in ſo faſt one upon another that moſt of them were drown'd. Their commanding Officer, nam'd Andrew Iwanowitz Rukawitznikof was taken and carried to Dorpat, where he died of his Wounds. The Swedes took 300 Horſes, the Equipage of the Officers, the Tents, Baggage and Ammunition of the Muſcovites; with no more loſs than of 6 Men kill'd, and 4 Officers and 14 Troopers wounded.
